

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

TO ALL TRUE LOVERS OF LIBERTY.

FRIENDS, BROTHERS, SISTERS,

AMIDST the confusion of kingdoms and empires, does progression stop, or does the period approach marked out by prophetic inspiration? Are the signs so clearly given for our warning by the beloved Messiah evidently manifesting themselves? Are men's hearts failing them for fear? Are the most subtle political arrangements crumbling into dust and exhibiting the weakness and instability of all human inventions? Are we, like the Israelites of old, turning to worship the golden calf, and saying, like the fool in his heart, There is no God? If so, surely it is a time to call back the wavering, superstitious, wandering, and infidel spirit of the age to those sublime truths which have been gradually casting the light of civilization into the world; and, from this Rock, challenge all the depths and accumulation of philosophic lore to produce any form of laws, or any code of morals, comparable with the spirit of the Gospel, or upon which the superstructure of society can be so safely and firmly based; its power extending to the present, harmonizing all institutions framed upon its pure influence, as well as holding out to individuals, both for the present and future, a larger, firmer share of spiritual hope, comfort, consolation, and reward, than ever the wit of man could even devise.

Therefore I make no apology for placing the Gospels of the four Evangelists before you in this form, the motive and feeling being the perpetual recurrence of the question,

"Why do we neglect so great salvation and knowledge?" Is it that the struggle to obtain the necessities, the comforts, the luxuries of life, occupy so large a share of our time?

Or that the progress and acquirement of scientific or practical knowledge precludes us from the study of our eternal concerns by the pressure for present temporal advantages?

Or that to achieve success requires the entire of our time, faculties, and memory, and so leaves not a trifling corner for that essential, sober reflection, which makes men ask themselves,

"What shall it profit me if I gain the whole world and lose my own soul? Or what shall I give in exchange for my soul?"

Shall immortal beings be content to incur the risk of losing their Souls upon the strength of excuses?

No! no! Your heavenly Father forbids ye to be so content, and says, "Awake thou that sleepest, and arise from the dead, and Christ shall give thee light!" Seek, and ye shall find! Ask, and it shall be given you! Knock, and it shall be opened!

These reflections decided me to arrange the four Gospels in such manner as I hoped would assist the memory, induce comparison and research, interest and rouse man to the welfare of his soul, and call the attention of the indifferent or careless to some striking truths, not always obvious to those who, travelling hastily and impatiently through the pilgrimage of their earthly trials, tarry not to refresh their broken strength and spirit at the pure and delicious spring as they pass; but with a weary and discontented mind deem all vanity, vexation, and delusion, and in that feeling reject, overlook, and undervalue the gentle stream of Christian love, consolation, and resolution, which swells into everlasting life and faith. Kind Readers, may the pure and Holy Spirit of Truth guide you to the true Source, and give you power and energy to drink at it to your eternal welfare!

INTRODUCTION.

THE four writers of the history and doctrine of our blessed Saviour were from the earliest ages termed Evangelists, or writers of good tidings, and under the special inspiration of the Holy Ghost or Comforter, as sent by our blessed Lord after his ascension, and in conformity with his promise to his disciples—"Howbeit, when he the Spirit of Truth is come, he will guide you into all Truth." So we must deem that all things essential to be known were by them recorded for the benefit of all ages.

Though the narratives of the Gospels as to time do not appear to have that consecutive arrangement which carries with it the power of impressing the memory as a matter of simple history, yet the facts stated are each in themselves so perfect and instructive, that it seems foolish to wish the detail of our Saviour's life to have been more copious: and we should never forget what St. John says:—

"And there are also many other things which Jesus did, the which, if they should be written every one, I suppose that even the world itself could not contain the books that should be written."

We should also feel doubly grateful that the means are so well adapted to the end. As life is short, so is the lesson of the wayfaring pilgrim clearly laid down in the discourses of our Saviour, within the comprehension of the humblest intellect, and he that runs may read.

Our Saviour declares, in confirmation of the Jewish law and commandments, that he came not to destroy, but to fulfil: and the benevolence of his mission was manifested and exalted above and beyond the Jewish covenant by a new commandment, majestically and impressively declared by himself:

“A new commandment I give unto you, That ye love one another; as I have loved you, that ye also love one another: by this shall men know that ye are my disciples, if ye have love one to another.”

This solemn command thus trebly repeated, urged by example, and frequently expatiated upon to shew its efficacy and necessity, as the first and leading point of the Christian character, cannot occupy too much of our reflection, and ought to be ever present to our thoughts.

How happy would all be on earth had this one simple command obtained the obedience due to it; and how sweet would the incense of that homage have ascended to the heavenly mind that gave it utterance, had the evil and bad passions of men been subdued to its holy power!

Reader, may this holy love possess thy spirit to its present joy and future hope; and may it urge thee in an earnest search for truth to the comforting and confirming thee in a steadfast faith in thy God and Saviour!

Although the Gospels of each of the Evangelists relate some circumstances and doctrines in common to all four, yet each will be found to have its own peculiar facts and doctrines, suited to the purposes and occasion for which it was written, and which are referred to in the short epitome of their respective biographies.

Nevertheless, there have not been wanting persons, who, regardless of the general harmony of the Gospels, their distinct agreement as to doctrine, morality, and facts, who from a cavilling spirit have pretended to find little differences: to such persons it is better to leave these foolish contentions,—praying and trusting, that, in His due season, the All-wise Disposer of events, will lift the veil from their eyes, and remove all unhappy doubts. On our parts, let us hold on firmly to that which can alone afford us contentment and peace on earth, and a good hope of eternal happiness in heaven, the tender mercy of our Creator, and the all-sufficient merit and atonement of our blessed Saviour—laying the Record of John the Baptist to our hearts.

And John bare record, saying, “I saw the Spirit descending from heaven like a Dove, and it abode upon him.

And I knew him not: but he that sent me to baptize with water, the same said unto me, Upon whom thou shalt see the Spirit descending, and remaining on him, the same is he which baptizeth with the Holy Ghost. And I saw, and bare record, that this is the Son of God."

It may be proper to shew that all cavilling objections, small differences, or constructions, become mere shadowy vapours when contrasted with the consistent majestic Spirit of Gospel Truth, historical fact, prophetic corroboration, fulfilled and fulfilling.

The prophet Daniel, greatly beloved of the Lord, gave to the Hebrew nation his prophecy as to the period they were to look for the Messiah, as described by Isaiah. As that period advanced, the whole Jewish nation anticipated with expectation its fulfilment. Their heathen governor Herod, also in fear for his temporal authority, issued his edict for the murder of the Innocents. The closing of the temple of Janus (in the reign of the Emperor Augustus Cæsar), the symbol of universal peace, combines to mark the year when the Prince of Peace was ushered into the wicked world he came to redeem by a perfect and entire obedience, and a full perfect expiation for the sins of the world to the offended justice of God.

Socrates, the wisest of the heathen philosophers, in whose soul some beams of truth found entrance, was so deeply moved by the depth of superstition, degradation, cruelty, and folly into which mankind had fallen, that he could not help exclaiming that, "Nothing but a power from heaven could recal and establish Truth."

In mercy to mankind that Power did descend, and gave evidence of its divine origin by proofs incontrovertible.

By Truth, established and declared by the voice of God.

By Miracles publicly performed—beyond natural means.

By Wisdom unerring—Never man spake like this man.

By Love unexampled—beyond the love of woman.

By Death unmerited—a pure and unblemished expiation.

By Resurrection—Destroy this temple and in three days I will raise it up.

By Manifestation—Visiting, conversing, and eating with his disciples after death.

By Ascension into heaven in presence of men and angels—"Ye men of Galilee, why stand ye gazing up into heaven? This same Jesus which is taken up from you into heaven shall so come in like manner as ye have seen him go into heaven."

Yes, Reader! for thy comfort or dread he will so come, however scorn or infidelity may rage and doubt. The period is rapidly advancing, according to the spirit of prophecy, combined with the testimony of our Blessed Saviour himself—see 840 Matthew, also 960 Luke. St. John also, in the power of the Spirit in his Revelations, relates, in unison with our Saviour's prophetic words, the circumstances which shall precede this second coming in Glory and to Judgment.

The Shepherd has given his warning! he has fed, nourished, entreated, persuaded, and paid the price of his blood for his flock; and still says, "Watch and pray. Trim your lamps, for ye know neither the day nor the hour when the Son of man cometh. For as the lightning cometh out of the east and shineth even unto the west, so shall also the coming of the Son of man be!" And in the last chapter of the Revelations is it not said? "Seal not the sayings of the prophecy of this book: for the time is at hand. And, behold, I (the Alpha and Omega) come quickly; and my reward is with me, to give every man according as his work shall be. Even so, come, Lord Jesus." Amen.

ST. MATTHEW.

St. Matthew (called by St. Mark, "Levi the son of Alphæus," and by St. John simply "Levi") was a publican, or collector of taxes under the Roman Government; he was called by our Saviour as he sat at his usual seat of custom to collect the dues; he did not evince a moment's hesitation, but promptly responded to the call, abandoned his occupation, although lucrative, devoted himself to the service, was a witness of the miracles, a hearer of the instructions, and a faithful and humble follower of his divine Master. From these combined circumstances, St. Matthew was eminently qualified to write his pure and excellent Gospel.

He continued with the other disciples and apostles after the crucifixion, as a witness and bearing testimony of the resurrection and glorious ascension of the blessed Jesus, receiving with the other disciples the gift of the Holy Spirit, which empowered him to place in writing before mankind all that part of the doctrine and life of our Saviour which was essential to our rightly estimating the precious gift of our redemption; and especially to demonstrate to the Jews the literal fulfilment of all the scriptural prophecies in reference to the blessed Messiah, at that especial time expected and looked for by the whole Jewish nation in conformity with those prophecies.

How awfully does he detail the circumstances that led the Jews to that fearful imprecation,—“His blood be on us and on our children;” and how manifest has been the punishment of that unbelieving, proud, and cruel nation, who washed their hands in the blood of innocence, although a heathen governor proclaimed the injustice by washing his hands and declaring himself innocent of the blood of the Holy Jesus.

St. Matthew is said to have travelled through great part of the East, by his preaching overthrowing Idolatry and establishing Christianity. The manner of his death is uncertain.

In St. Matthew's Gospel only are related the following facts, &c.:—

The Visit of the Eastern Magi.

The Flight into Egypt.

The Slaughter of the Innocents.

The Parable of the Ten Virgins.

The Dream of Pilate's Wife.

The arising and appearing of the Saints after the Resurrection.

The alleged Bribery of the Roman Guard.

The Sermon on the Mount; and some other matters more in detail than the other Evangelists.

ST. MARK.

St. Mark is not supposed to have been a personal follower of our Saviour, on account of his youth, but he was a member of the Christian community at Jerusalem (that body assembling in his mother's house); and it is considered, from the very acute and close description of every lapse of St. Peter and his close intimacy and companionship with that apostle, that this Gospel may be deemed the result, and was in most part probably written under the especial superintendence, of that zealous and bold assertor of his Master's divinity; as well that the relation of the weaknesses and presumption of St. Peter is evidently made to manifest more strongly the divine, merciful, and saving power of Jesus.

St. Mark having received the gift of the Holy Spirit, it does not of necessity follow that he required the assistance of St. Peter; nor does it detract from the Holy Truth to connect the possible and natural means by which an inspired historian acquires his information or receives his holy impulses.

St. Mark was a zealous labourer in propagating the truth, and sealed his faith and mission by martyrdom in Alexandria — his persecutors, the Egyptians, dragging him through the streets till the flesh was torn from his bones. The Great Church of St. Mark, in Venice (where it is said is an autograph copy of his Gospel, now illegible) stands a memorial of the early reverence in which he was held: as does likewise St. Peter's, at Rome, become a tributary witness to the original truth, however the clouds of error and superstition may at present envelop in mental darkness the unhappy devotees who frequent its magnificent shrines.

There are several circumstances related by St. Mark not noticed by the other Evangelists, the chief are, viz. :—

The casting out the Unclean Spirit of the Daughter of the Syrophenician Woman.

The Cure of one Deaf and with Impediment of Speech.

The Restoring Sight to the Blind Man, in chap. viii. 307, and following verses.

ST. LUKE.

St. Luke, the beloved physician, in the chaste dedication of his Gospel, modestly states that it seemed good to him, "having had perfect understanding of all things from the very first," to write them in order that not only Theophilus (who had been instructed therein), but that all might know their certainty and truth.

St. Luke is thought to have been one of the seventy sent forth by our Lord Jesus in his lifetime, and the emphatic and ever-blessed instruction, "Freely ye have received, freely give"! which was addressed to the twelve, we may infer was also an established law to the seventy.

St. Luke's friendship and attachment to St. Paul elicit the same remark as to the composition of his Gospel, as did the connection of St. Mark and St. Peter as to the influence of such relation.

The highly cultivated intellect and education both of St. Luke and St. Paul rendered them meet companions: St. Paul brought up at the feet of Gamaliel, and St. Luke as a physician, educated for the performance of a class of duties requiring reflection and patient inquiry; the one describing himself as born out of season, yet prepared by the Divine Spirit for his mission to the Gentile world,—the other by his love, and animated by the example of his great Teacher, desirous of curing both the soul and body by urging all men to embrace the truth in Christ Jesus.

It is supposed St. Luke was with St. Paul and suffered martyrdom in Rome before he had finished the record of the Acts of the Apostles: happily for Christians he has recorded in his pure, gentle, Christian style, the accomplishment of the last act of our Blessed Saviour's mission, his ascension into heaven, and the testimony of the two angels that he should revisit earth in like manner; also the fulfilment of his gracious promise to send the Holy Spirit or Comforter, giving thereby to his apostles the gift of tongues, conferring and confirming all power necessary to propagate truth in his holy name.

The Gospel of St. Luke contains, as might be expected from such a well-prepared and regulated mind, many illustrations of subjects not noticed by his less-gifted though truthful fellow-labourers, and is adapted, it is considered, for the Gentile world, as was St. Matthew's Gospel for his Jewish countrymen.

The following are not found in the other Gospels:—

The Birth of John the Baptist.

The Roman Census in Judæa.

The Vision of the Shepherds.

The Testimony of Simeon and Anna.

The Hearing and Asking Questions in the Temple at Twelve Years old.

The Good Samaritan.

The Prodigal Son.

The Rich Man and Lazarus.

The Wicked Judge.

The Publican and Pharisee.

The Miraculous Cure of the Woman afflicted Eighteen Years.

The Cleansing of the Ten Lepers.

The Restoring to Life the Widow's Son of Nain.

The Account of Zacchæus.

The Penitent Thief.

The Journey of Two Disciples to Emmaus.

ST. JOHN.

St. John, the youngest, the beloved disciple, called by our Saviour the Son of Thunder, who, though he fled with the rest in the agony of terror, yet returned in faith, and at the foot of the cross received the last words and precious legacy of his Divine Master: so thoroughly imbued was St. John with the spirit of the Holy Jesus, that, when age and infirmity rendered him otherwise powerless, he still found strength to reiterate the one—the new—commandment, —“Little Children, love one another.”

St. John was spared by the Holy One to see the fulfilment of the divine prophecies as to the destruction of Jerusalem and the dispersion of the Jews; and we may admire and adore the wise dispensation which thus preserved him to long life to write his Gospel, which makes clear the divinity of our Saviour, and corrected the early errors with which the sinfulness of man strove to tarnish the bright lustre of truth and salvation.

In his good tidings St. John has left to mankind such a record and outpouring gush of heavenly love and truth as could only be learned by one who had leaned on the holy and heavenly bosom of Incarnate Divinity; and as from his divine lips and spirit he drank in the inspiration, so should we bind to our hearts his words of love, encouragement, and reproof, in the firm hope and faith of hearing with our own ears the voice of Christ himself, saying, “Come, ye blessed, inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the beginning of the world.”

St. John wrote the Revelation in the Isle of Patmos; and after the death of the Emperor Domitian the sentence of proscription was recalled by Nerva, and St. John returned to Ephesus, where he died at a very advanced age.

St. John, with his characteristic feeling, relates more attempts on the life of his Saviour than either of the other Evangelists; is more explanatory of Jewish customs and manners for general edification; and more distinct and decided in all that relates to the divinity and dignity of the Holy Jesus.

The first chapter sets out in all the boldness and sublimity of truth the doctrine upon which is based the eternal mercy of the Creator. Therefore be advised; read, rejoice, and open your heart and soul to admit the light, that ye may thereby have power to become one of the Sons of God.

AMEN.

Joseph the husband of Mary, of whom was born Jesus, who is called Christ.

17. 17 So all the generations from Abraham to David are fourteen generations; and from David until the carrying away into Babylon are fourteen generations; and from the carrying away into Babylon unto Christ are fourteen generations.

18. 18 ¶ Now the birth of Jesus Christ was on this wise: When as his mother Mary was espoused to Joseph, before they came together, she was found with child of the Holy Ghost.

19. 19 Then Joseph her husband, being a just man, and not willing to make her a publick example, was minded to put her away privily.

20. 20 But while he thought on these things, behold, the angel of the Lord appeared unto him in a dream, saying, Joseph, thou son of David, fear not to take unto thee Mary thy wife: for that which is conceived in her is of the Holy Ghost.

2 Annas and Caiaphas being the High Priests, the word of God came unto John the son of Zacharias in the wilderness.

3 And he came into all the country about Jordan, preaching the baptism of repentance for the remission of sins;

21 Jesus saith unto her, Woman, believe me, the hour cometh, when ye shall neither in this mountain, nor yet at Jerusalem, worship the Father.

22 Ye worship ye know not what: we know what we worship: for salvation is of the Jews.

23 But the hour cometh, and now is, when the true worshippers shall worship the Father in spirit and in truth: for the Father seeketh such to worship him.

52 And not for that nation only, but that also he should gather together in one the children of God that were scattered abroad.

53 Then from that day forth they took counsel together for to put him to death.

54 Jesus therefore walked no more openly among the Jews; but went thence unto a country near to the wilderness, into a city called Ephraim, and there continued with his disciples.

55 And the Jews' Passover was nigh at hand: and many went out of the country up to Jerusalem before the Passover, to purify themselves.

56 Then sought they for Jesus, and spake among themselves, as they stood in the temple, What think ye, that he will not come to the feast?

57 Now both the Chief Priests and the Pharisees had given a commandment,

27 And it came to pass, as he spake these things, a certain woman of the company lifted up her voice, and said unto him, Blessed is the womb that bare thee, and the paps which thou hast sucked.

28 But he said, Yea rather, blessed are they that hear the word of God, and keep it.

33 Little children, yet a little while I am with you.

ST. MATTHEW.

Jesus had finished these sayings, he departed from Galilee, and came into the coasts of Judæa beyond Jordan;

620. 2 And great multitudes followed him: and he healed them there.

621. 3 ¶ The Pharisees also came unto him, tempting him, and saying unto him, Is it lawful for a man to put away his wife for every cause?

622. 4 And he answered and said unto them, Have ye not read, that he which made them at the beginning made them male and female,

623. 5 And said, For this cause shall a man leave father and mother, and shall cleave to his wife: and they twain shall be one flesh?

624. 6 Wherefore they are no more twain, but one flesh. What therefore God hath joined together, let not man put asunder.

him to do as he had ever done unto them.

9 But Pilate answered them, saying, Will ye that I release unto you the King of the Jews?

10 For he knew that the Chief Priests had delivered him for envy.

11 But the Chief Priests moved the people, that he should rather release Barabbas unto them.

12 And Pilate answered and said again unto them, What will ye then that I shall do unto him whom ye call the King of the Jews?

13 And they cried out again, Crucify him.

the son against the father; the mother against the daughter, and the daughter against the mother; the mother in law against her daughter in law, and the daughter in law against her mother in law.

54 And he said also to the people, When ye see a cloud rise out of the west, straightway ye say, There cometh a shower; and so it is.

55 And when ye see the south wind blow, ye say, There will be heat; and it cometh to pass.

56 Ye hypocrites, ye can discern the face of the sky and of the earth; but how is it that ye do not discern this time?

57 Yea, and why even of yourselves judge ye not what is right?

58 When thou goest with thine adversary to the magistrate, as thou art in the way, give diligence that thou mayest be delivered from him; lest he hail thee to the judge, and the judge deliver thee to the officer, and the officer cast thee into prison.

ST. JOHN.

Ye shall seek me: and as I said unto the Jews, Whither I go, ye cannot come; so now I say to you.

34 A new commandment I give unto you, That ye love one another; as I have loved you, that ye also love one another.

35 By this shall all men know that ye are my disciples, if ye have love one to another.

36 ¶ Simon Peter said unto him, Lord, whither goest thou? Jesus answered him, Whither I go, thou canst not follow me now; but thou shalt follow me afterwards.

37 Peter said unto him, Lord, why cannot I follow thee now? I will lay down my life for thy sake.

38 Jesus answered him, Wilt thou lay down thy life for my sake? Verily, verily, I say unto thee, The cock shall not crow, till thou hast denied me thrice.

ST. MATTHEW.

625. 7 They say unto him, Why did Moses then command to give a writing of divorcement, and to put her away?

626. 8 He saith unto them, Moses because of the hardness of your hearts suffered you to put away your wives: but from the beginning it was not so.

627. 9 And I say unto you, Whosoever shall put away his wife, except it be for fornication, and shall marry another, committeth adultery: and whoso marrieth her which is put away doth commit adultery.

628. 10 His disciples say unto him, If the case of the man be so with his wife, it is not good to marry.

629. 11 But he said unto them, All men cannot receive this saying, save they to whom it is given.

630. 12 For there are some eunuchs, which were so born from their mother's womb: and there are some eunuchs, which were made eunuchs of men: and there be eunuchs, which have made themselves eunuchs for the kingdom of heaven's sake. He that is able

ST. MARK.

14 Then Pilate said unto them, Why, what evil hath he done? And they cried out the more exceedingly, Crucify him.

15 ¶ And so Pilate, willing to content the people, released Barabbas unto them, and delivered Jesus, when he had scourged him, to be crucified.

16 And the soldiers led him away into the hall, called Prætorium; and they call together the whole band.

17 And they clothed him with purple, and platted a crown of thorns, and put it about his head,

18 And began to salute him, Hail, King of the Jews!

19 And they smote him on the head with a reed, and did spit upon him, and bowing their knees worshipped him.

ST. LUKE.

59 I tell thee, thou shalt not depart thence, till thou hast paid the very last mite.

1 THERE were present at that season some that told him of the Galilæans, whose blood Pilate had mingled with their sacrifices.

2 And Jesus answering said unto them, Suppose ye that these Galilæans were sinners above all the Galilæans, because they suffered such things?

3 I tell you, Nay: but, except ye repent, ye shall all likewise perish.

4 Or those eighteen, upon whom the tower in Siloam fell, and slew them, think ye that they were sinners above all men that dwelt in Jerusalem?

5 I tell you, Nay: but, except ye repent, ye shall all likewise perish.

ST. JOHN.

1 LET not your heart be troubled: ye believe in God, believe also in me.

2 In my Father's house are many mansions: if it were not so, I would have told you. I go to prepare a place for you.

3 And if I go and prepare a place for you, I will come again, and receive you unto myself; that where I am, there ye may be also.

4 And whither I go ye know, and the way ye know.

5 Thomas saith unto him, Lord, we know not whither thou goest; and how can we know the way?

6 ¶ Jesus saith unto him, I am the way, the truth, and the life: no man cometh unto the Father, but by me.

to receive it, let him receive it.

631. 13 Then were there brought unto him little children, that he should put his hands on them, and pray: and the disciples rebuked them.

632. 14 But Jesus said, Suffer little children, and forbid them not, to come unto me: for of such is the kingdom of heaven.

633. 15 And he laid his hands on them, and departed thence.

634. 16 ¶ And, behold, one came and said unto him, Good Master, what good thing shall I do, that I may have eternal life?

635. 17 And he said unto him, Why callest thou me good? there is none good but one; that is, God: but if thou wilt enter into life, keep the commandments.

636. 18 He saith unto him, Which? Jesus said, Thou shalt do no murder, Thou shalt not commit adultery, Thou shalt not

20 And when they had mocked him, they took off the purple from him, and put his own clothes on him, and led him out to crucify him.

21 And they compel one Simon a Cyrenian, who passed by, coming out of the country, the father of Alexander and Rufus, to bear his cross.

22 And they bring him unto the place Golgotha, which is, being interpreted, The place of a scull.

23 And they gave him to drink wine mingled with myrrh: but he received it not.

24 And when they had crucified him, they parted his garments, casting lots upon them, what every man should take.

25 And it was the third hour, and they crucified him.

ST. LUKE.

6 ¶ He spake also this parable; A certain man had a fig tree planted in his vineyard; and he came and sought fruit thereon, and found none.

7 Then said he unto the dresser of his vineyard, Behold, these three years I come seeking fruit on this fig tree, and find none: cut it down; why cumbereth it the ground?

8 And he answering said unto him, Lord, let it alone this year also, till I shall dig about it, and dung it:

9 And if it bear fruit, well: and if not, then after that thou shalt cut it down.

10 And he was teaching in one of the synagogues on the sabbath.

11 And, behold, there was a woman which had a spirit of infirmity eighteen years, and was bowed together, and could in no wise

8 Philip saith unto him, Lord, shew us the Father, and it sufficeth us.

9 Jesus saith unto him, Have I been so long time with you, and yet hast thou not known me, Philip? he that hath seen me hath seen the Father; and how sayest thou then, Shew us the Father?

10 Believest thou not that I am in the Father, and the Father in me? the words that I speak unto you I speak not of myself: but the Father that dwelleth in me, he doeth the works.

11 Believe me that I am in the Father, and the Father in me: or else believe me for the very works' sake.

637. 19 Honour thy father and thy mother: and, Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself.

638. 20 The young man saith unto him, All these things have I kept from my youth up: what lack I yet?

639. 21 Jesus said unto him, If thou wilt be perfect, go and sell that thou hast, and give to the poor, and thou shalt have treasure in heaven: and come and follow me.

640. 22 But when the young man heard that saying, he went away sorrowful: for he had great possessions.

641. 23 Then said Jesus unto his disciples, Verily I say unto you, That a rich man shall hardly enter into the kingdom of heaven.

642. 24 And again I say unto you, It is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle, than for a rich man to enter into the kingdom of God.

ST. MARK.

26 And the superscription of his accusation was written over, THE KING OF THE JEWS.

27 ¶ And with him they crucify two thieves; the one on his right hand, and the other on his left.

28 And the Scripture was fulfilled, which saith, And he was numbered with the transgressors.

29 And they that passed by railed on him, wagging their heads, and saying, Ah, thou that destroyest the temple, and buildest it in three days,

30 Save thyself, and come down from the cross.

31 Likewise also the Chief Priests mocking said among themselves with the Scribes, He saved others; himself he cannot save.

12 And when Jesus saw her, he called her to him, and said unto her, Woman, thou art loosed from thine infirmity.

13 And he laid his hands on her: and immediately she was made straight, and glorified God.

14 And the ruler of the synagogue answered with indignation, because that Jesus had healed on the sabbath day, and said unto the people, There are six days in which men ought to work: in them therefore come and be healed, and not on the sabbath day.

15 The Lord then answered him, and said, Thou hypocrite, doth not each one of you on the sabbath loose his ox or his ass from the stall, and lead him away to watering?

16 And ought not this woman, being a daughter of Abraham, whom Satan hath bound, lo, these eighteen years, be loosed from this bond on the sabbath day?

17 And when he had said these things, all his adversaries were ashamed: and all the people rejoiced for all the glorious things that were done by him.

13 And whatsoever ye shall ask in my name, that will I do, that the Father may be glorified in the Son.

14 If ye shall ask any thing in my name, I will do it.

15 If ye love me, keep my commandments.

16 And I will pray the Father, and he shall give you another Comforter, that he may abide with you for ever;

17 Even the Spirit of truth; whom the world cannot receive, because it seeth him not, neither knoweth him: but ye know him; for he dwelleth with you, and shall be in you.

18 I will not leave you comfortless: I will come to you.

ST. MATTHEW.

643. 25 When his disciples heard it, they were exceedingly amazed, saying, Who then can be saved?

644. 26 But Jesus beheld them, and said unto them, With men this is impossible; but with God all things are possible.

645. 27 Then answered Peter and said unto him, Behold, we have forsaken all, and followed thee; what shall we have therefore?

646. 28 And Jesus said unto them, Verily, I say unto you, That ye which have followed me, in the regeneration when the Son of man shall sit in the throne of his glory, ye also shall sit upon twelve thrones, judging the twelve tribes of Israel.

647. 29 And every one that hath forsaken houses, or brethren, or sisters, or father, or mother, or wife, or children, or lands, for my name's sake, shall receive an hundredfold, and shall inherit everlasting life.

648. 30 But many that are first shall be last; and the last shall be first.

ST. MARK.

32 Let Christ the King of Israel descend now from the cross, that we may see and believe. And they that were crucified with him reviled him.

33 And when the sixth hour was come, there was darkness over the whole land until the ninth hour.

34 And at the ninth hour Jesus cried with a loud voice, saying, Eloi, Eloi, lama sabachthani? which is, being interpreted, My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?

35 And some of them that stood by, when they heard it, said, Behold, he calleth Elias.

36 And one ran and filled a sponge full of vinegar, and put it on a reed, and gave him to drink, saying, Let alone; let us see whether Elias will come to take him down.

37 And Jesus cried with a loud voice, and gave up the ghost.

ST. LUKE.

18 Then said he, Unto what is the kingdom of God like? and whereunto shall I resemble it?

19 It is like a grain of mustard seed, which a man took, and cast into his garden; and it grew, and waxed a great tree; and the fowls of the air lodged in the branches of it.

20 And again he said, Whereunto shall I liken the kingdom of God?

21 It is like leaven, which a woman took and hid in three measures of meal, till the whole was leavened.

22 And he went through the cities and villages, teaching, and journeying toward Jerusalem.

20 At that day ye shall know that I am in my Father, and ye in me, and I in you.

21 He that hath my commandments, and keepeth them, he it is that loveth me: and he that loveth me shall be loved of my Father, and I will love him, and will manifest myself to him.

22 Judas saith unto him, not Iscariot, Lord, how is it that thou wilt manifest thyself unto us, and not unto the world?

23 Jesus answered and said unto him, If a man love me, he will keep my words: and my Father will love him, and we will come unto him, and make our abode with him.

650. 2 And when he had agreed with the labourers for a penny a day, he sent them into his vineyard.

651. 3 And he went out about the third hour, and saw others standing idle in the marketplace,

652. 4 And said unto them; Go ye also into the vineyard, and whatsoever is right I will give you. And they went their way.

920. 10 When Jesus understood it, he said unto them, Why trouble ye the woman? for she hath wrought a good work upon me.

921. 11 For ye have the poor always with you; but me ye have not always.

922. 12 For in that she hath poured this ointment on my body, she did it for my burial.

32 Last of all the woman died also.

33 Therefore in the resurrection whose wife of them is she? for seven had her to wife.

34 And Jesus answering said unto them, The children of this world marry, and are given in marriage:

35 But they which shall be accounted worthy to obtain that world, and the resurrection from the dead, neither marry, nor are given in marriage:

36 Neither can they die any more: for they are equal unto the angels; and are the children of God, being the children of the resurrection.
